DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jamin, Rev. fr. Gynécol.Obstét (1992), Vol. 87, No. 6, pp. 370-376.

Jamin discloses a combination of 5 mg/day of norgestrol acetate and estradiol 18 women aged 19-40 who had experience menstrual problems with high dose of progestins. Period of use ranged from 3 months to 3 years and total 272 cycles of 20 days/28. No pregnancies occurred and cycle control was good, and clinical tolerance was excellent. Jamin also discloses that there has been a long history of use of oral contraceptives. See entire document, especially Abstract and pgs. 370-372, 375.

The difference between the prior art and the claimed invention is that the prior art does not expressly disclose the combination of norgesterol and estradiol in a single composition. However, the prior art amply suggests the prior art discloses that oral contraceptives and use of the same are well known and that norgesterol and estradiol can be used as co-therapy as contraceptives. As such, it would have been well within the skill of and one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to combine norgesterol and estradiol in a single oral dose for purposes of convenience, i.e the patient would only have to remember to take a single dosage form a day as opposed to having to remember to self-administer two dosage forms and would be motivated to vary doses and periods of administration depending on effectiveness in reducing the risk of pregnancy. Further, one of ordinary skill in the art would expect that any pharmaceutically acceptable form of estradiol could be used with the expectation that the combination of the same with nongesterol would be effective in contraception.

Therefore, the claimed invention, as a whole, would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, because every element of the invention has been collectively taught by the combined teachings of the references.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 1-33 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 18, 21-32 of U.S. Patent Application 09/423,108. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both claim methods of achieving contraception by orally administering to a female a composition comprising estradiol or ester thereof and nomegesterol acetate, for 21 up to 28 days with a placebo for balance of menstrual cycle.

Art Unit: 1616

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
